Police Again Search Office Of Magazine

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—(CP)—Two RCMP corporals made a one-hour search of the downtown Richmond street offices of New Liberty magazine today but did not find a file and a letter specified in their warrant.

Managing Editor Wallace Reiburn said.

HE SAID THE SEARCH warrant authorized them to look for and find, to seize a file marked "Alberta Child Welfare" and a letter "concerning with 'New Liberty' magazine" and to seize any other signed or initialed by Harold Dingman, Ottawa editor of the magazine.

The corporals found a file marked "Alberta file—child welfare case" and "showed interest in taking that," said Mr. Reiburn. But it was not seized because of the difference in name. The officers did not find the letter they were seeking.

Mr. Dingman and Jack Kent Cooke, New Liberty publisher are charged by Alberta authorities with conspiracy to publish a defamatory libel.

One of the charges is an article, "Babies For Export," written by Mr. Dingman and published in the magazine.

Rocky Lumber Mill Destroyed By Fire

Special to The Edmonton Bulletin
 ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Feb. 3.—Fire of unknown origin swept through the T. Nance Lumber Mill at Rocky Mountain House this morning causing damage estimated at $400,000.

The blaze broke out about 6 a.m. Tuesday and the fire spread completely uncontrolled in flames when first noticed.

Firefighters fought for a considerable time by the use of high-pressure hoses from the town fire department, before it was brought under control.

Considerable equipment was destroyed in the fire, in addition to 10,000 feet of dry lumber. Several houses standing beside the building were burned slightly, but fire-fighters managed to save them.

Office of the mill, located only a few feet from the main structure, also was saved.

Cause of the fire is not known, but it is believed to have started in the engine room. Mr. T. Nance, owner of the mill, was in Red Deer at the time.

RCAF Flyers Trounce Italy

By JACK SULLIVAN
 ST. MORTIZ, Feb. 3.—(CP)—Canada pulled off a fourth straight victory today as RCAF fighters trounced a weakly Italian team to win 21-15 in the final round of the World Cup.

It was a repetition of Monday's match when Canada pulled off a upset victory over the Italians.

But Dowey, who previously had allowed only one goal in the first round, struck a tough blow in the search for his third straight.

Through the final period Center Enrico Menardi of the Italian team scored a lone goal to give the Canadian net and let go a blind shot which went in off Dowey's keeper. Up to then Italy hadn't had a decent scoring chance.

Thousands Idle Due to Shortage

Would Use Alberta Gas "As Bargaining Point" To Obtain U.S. Fuel for Ontario Industries

By DICK JACKSON
 Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
 OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—David A. Croil, Liberal member for Toronto-Spadina, said today he will urge the federal government to attempt to use the shortage of U.S. natural gas as a bargaining point in urging that the U.S. release sufficient natural gas to let western Ontario's crippled industries be restored to full operation.

There are 25,000 workers in the southern Ontario areas out of work for no fault of their own. Because of the shortage of U.S. natural gas in Seattle, there is an effort being made to get large supplies of natural gas from Alberta.

Permission of the federal government is required before the Alberta gas can be exported to the U.S. Mr. Croil is writing that the federal government should not be dependent on a foreign source of supply.

HE SAID, "It is possible to pipe gas from Alberta to Seattle, there is no reason why it can't be piped to Ontario." He said that private citizens would get the benefit, as would Winnipeg, the Lakehead and the mining areas of Northern Ontario.

"There would be such a demand for it along the way, that we would be lucky to get any of it in south."

Compulsory Figures Start

Barbara Ann Leads In Olympic Skating

ST. MORTIZ, Feb. 3.—(CP)—The women's figure skating event at the fifth winter Olympics was postponed until tomorrow after the first half of the compulsory figures had been skated today with Barbara Ann, British, in the lead.

Softening ice made the postponement necessary. The favored Canadian star scored 30.6 points in her first two compulsory figures. Gretchen Merrill of Boston, the five-time United States champion, was in seventh place with 21.1 points.

The second set of the women's figure skating competition with three more skaters today, was Eva Pawlik of Austria, 8.5 points back of Miss Scott.

Compulsory figures scored 60 per cent in the figure skating event. Free skating, to be skated later, counts 40 per cent.

Marilyn Ruth Take of Toronto was in eighth place. Celebrations tomorrow through the end of the week will mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of the city.

The forecast is for "strong north wind" from 10 to 20 miles an hour, with continuous snow and heavy drifting.

The storm is expected to cover the whole western prairie region between the Peace River and the United States border. Temperatures are expected to drop to five degrees above zero.

To Reduce Living Costs Prime Minister Hints Tax Cuts are Coming

By D'Arcy O'Donnell
 OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King hinted yesterday in the common that tax reduction would be made in the next budget to reduce living costs, but his statement did not ward off a heavy barrage of criticism from opposition leaders on the government's handling of price control.

MR. KING, MOVING a motion for the establishment of a committee to investigate reasons for increases in the cost of living, said the government already had taken some steps to control prices, but there were other parts of the government's program which could not be disclosed immediately.

"It has been stated in the press that the proper way to bring down the cost of living is to make certain changes in the tax schedule and the like," said Mr. King. "As members well know, the government cannot disclose its program on this matter until the budget is brought down."

While Mr. King expressed belief in the government's price committee would lead to reductions in the cost of living, he said that the government would be dependent on a foreign source of supply.

HE SAID, "It is possible to pipe gas from Alberta to Seattle, there is no reason why it can't be piped to Ontario." He said that private citizens would get the benefit, as would Winnipeg, the Lakehead and the mining areas of Northern Ontario.

Tax Speculation

wondering whether Mr. King might not be tipping off the country that the government has something up its sleeve for the tax-paying class.

BUDGET TAX CHANGES are so secret, and reference to them in advance would be to be the detriment, Mr. King's statement was just that, and, if the government is figuring on such a move, it was about as far as he could go.

It must be read, too, in the light of the fact that it would be almost ridiculous for a government to advance a budget which would tax reduction unless he planned to follow it up.

On the other hand, there has been no indication that the government has debarred itself from the use of "creative budgeting." That program calls for high taxation in periods of high national revenue, and as now—with this double end in view:

1. To provide a financial cushion against hard times.

2. To drain away surplus purchasing power as a weapon against inflation.

AS A BOLSTER against depression, the idea of this policy is that good times, surplus would go into the tax-cutting of the war-won national income, in turn cutting the amount of revenue needed to carry the debt.

Also, it would leave the government in a better spot to carry out its public works programs to absorb unemployed, when and if that should be necessary.

On the anti-inflation side, the idea is that government would mop up the excess purchasing power of the people to regard the demand trend of prices.

So far as can be learned, this double-ended program is a long-term effect. What is likely is that there will be no modifications in the rate of an expected heavy surplus this year, but that Finance Minister Abbott will wait until the autumn to palm extended to the taxpayers when his new budget comes down in the spring.

House of Lords Discuss Status

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(CP)—The House of Lords agreed today to discuss the status of the House of Lords last night to settle their future permanently.

It was said the peers the opportunity now presented to them to discuss their "future."

The House of Lords the hereditary chamber of parliament, now has delay legislation introduced by the House of Commons for two years. The labor government proposes to trim that power to one year.

During debate on the government bill, Lord Halifax described the constitutional issue involved as one which has engaged the attention of many respects the life of the nation over many years.

The lords appeared on the verge of reaching an agreement for an all-party conference to reform the House of Lords, but the conference was postponed. However, they adjourned without settling the matter after a 10-hour session, labor party leader, Lord Addison, later party leader, Lord Addison, said the government is willing to consider reform of the House of Lords on these conditions:

Discussion on its powers should be limited to ensuring "reasonable time" for consideration of bills by the House of Lords for discussion between the House of Commons and the House of Lords.

Tax Cuts Hinted

of living, John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, and M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, sharply disagreed.

MR. BRACKEN charged the government was trying to "sidestep" the issue through establishment of the committee and the tax-cutting plan on others the blame it should assume itself for the mismanagement of the country. He concluded his speech with an amendment that would charge the committee's failure of investigation.

Mr. Coldwell said the people wanted action and not investigation. He said if the government wanted to cut taxes, it should do it. He said the government should cut taxes on the necessities of life, such as food, clothing, and shelter.

The CCF party was prepared to stand or fall on the price control issue.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said last night in the Commons he believed the Canadian people wanted both investigation and action in connection with the job cost-of-living.

Continued DEBATE on a motion to establish a price investigation committee, Mr. Low said he was interested in a suggestion by M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, that by-elections be held in the vacated seats in the Commons' seats of Ontario, Yale, B.C., and Vancouver.

Monkey Money

By Paul Gallico

A Yale professor of psychology has been making some interesting experiments with his laboratory monkeys. He has found out whether the chimps are capable of entertaining the concept of money, and the answer is yes. The monkeys were given a pile of bananas and a pile of money. The monkeys learned how to exchange the bananas for the money in its simplest form.

However, I would not let this monkey money fool you. The report made on this experiment, the primates still have a long way to go before they are summoned to Washington and given responsible positions in the Treasury Department, though sometimes reading some of the double-talk coming from those quarters, one wonders, doesn't one?

The professor, who taught the monkeys that when they paid out a monkey they got a bit of banana. A blue chip bought a peanut, a white chip a slice of banana, and green chips a whole banana. Yellow chips were worthless. The monkeys caught on quick and pretty soon Prof. was doing a nice business.

Work Machine

Encouraged, he began working with chimpanzees on a slightly higher level, presenting them first with a Chimp-matic, a machine which when fed a white poker chip passed out a grape. The boys made it, but one without too much trouble. Then he made them a "work-machine" with a heavy handle. When the monkey lifted the handle, he got one poker chip. He could use it to get a grape. According to Time magazine, some of the chimps were able to perform perfectly in the accumulation of the money. One of them earned a poker-chip count in a single ten-minute session.

Well, on the face of it, this looks mad and any moment you might expect the Tax Collector to come through the window and announce the name of Jocko, but, as I said before, I wouldn't let it worry me, because if you will examine the results of the chimpanzee's work, you will find that our free-riders, ring-larded friends still have a considerable distance to travel before they take over.

For a while he has even managed to master the refinement that a blue chip dropped into the Chimp-matic, it passed out two grapes and a red chip will yield a drink of beer (what the country needs in good red chip glass of beer). I still want to see him learn how to use a pulley to bring him a stack of blues until Saturday night when he becomes utterly alarmed. And if

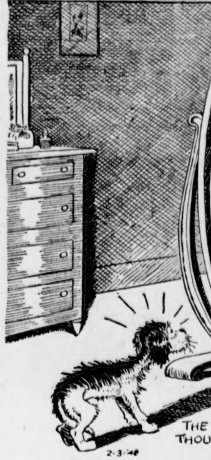

Credit Buying
There are still other minor financial problems to be mastered such as credit or installment buying, in which when you run out of the goods, the man comes and moves in with nothing or trying to get a cash driver to take the goods away. Or working out the modern economy and the man who takes the money and the more you owe, the more you owe.

But it doesn't have to be that complicated. Wait until that monkey in the wage earner's shoes is in the Chimp-matic tries to close a place where he has a railroad station Chimp-matic.

They're not ready to take over yet.

Palestine Is a Symbol

By Harold L. Weir

The war in Palestine increases in ferocity and violence. In Jerusalem, the Arabs have been driven out of their homes and are now living in tents. The British forces are now in control of the city.

Moreover, the Arabs by long time, have also established a claim to interest in Palestine since the British forces have withdrawn from the Holy Land. Being largely nomadic people, the Arabs have not taken root so deeply in the soil of any country as those Jews who have.

Intelligence and intelligence have been doubled the resources and products of Palestine in less than half a century.

But the crux of the problem is neither economic nor political. It is a moral problem.

In the mass. Each person's physical condition is governed, within very wide limits, by his own conduct—and that is one thing which associations and medical men and public officials cannot regulate effectively.

These can, however, advise people as to how they may avoid disease, minimize risks, and give themselves the best chance to get well and stay well.

They are trying to do in a multitude of ways. Health Week being one of the expedients used to get the message across to every person who can be induced to listen. For this, unmeasured thanks are due to all who are concerned themselves in spreading the information as to how health may be maintained.

As to the results, these must depend upon the willingness of individuals to learn and apply the rules for healthy living. That, it could be supposed, is about the easiest of all subjects in which to arouse the interest of any normal person. But it isn't. If it were, we should not need so many hospitals, and doctors and nurses would not be worked to the breaking point. For to a very large extent these curative institutions are filled with people who did not pay attention to the rules they knew, and doctors and nurses are kept busy trying to avert the consequences of persistent neglect.

It is to be hoped that Health Week this year will have marked success, alike in spreading the knowledge of what people should do to keep well—and equally, perhaps even more, in persuading them to follow the advice, much of which they have heard many times.

They Weren't That 'Dumb'

Moscow Radio was premature in saying the foreign ministers of the democratic powers went into the London conference with a "previously elaborated plan" to merge the three western occupied zones of Germany in a single economic unit, perhaps also a political unit.

This was promptly denied. But it was not denied that they had considered such a plan in the event that Mr. Molotov should refuse to deal with Germany as a whole. When he did refuse, there was nothing the Russians could do but turn to the alternative. They are now "elaborating" the plan, with prospects that it will come into effect without much delay.

That there is now such a plan in making is due to the stand-out action of the Russian foreign minister. Whatever his intention, this course became inevitable when he declared that eastern Germany is to remain indefinitely in the Russian sphere.

It may have been the hope at Moscow that while Russia continued to exploit eastern Germany, the West would politically.

The Democracies would continue to support western Germany on debts and leave it an open field for Communist intrigue. The obvious displeasure of Moscow radio rather suggests as much.

"Pony Express" Delivers For Flyers

HAROLD DEAN, Sports Editor

AND so Flyers are back on top after all, even though it's only by the absolute minimum. However, one point seems to become a major factor in the Western Canada senior circuit, as the schedule enters its final stages.

One thing is certain and that is so long as a fellow can remain on top, the spot is his, even though someone else might come along with better credentials in a day or two.

Anyway, Edmonton is leading the league for the second time this season and Regina has to beat Lethbridge Wednesday to change the picture and then travel to Calgary for Friday before keeping a Saturday night here. It's an interesting situation and doesn't lack possibilities.

Bonspie Progressing Smoothly

DRAWS yesterday were right on time and several of the 9 p.m. games were finished well before midnight. The full 12 ends are being played this year, which always is more satisfying to both winner and loser.

Ten-v games, as has been in effect here for some time due to ice shortage, never were popular.

"Starters," an innovation this year, are proving a real boom. Each rink has its official starter, who puts out the cards, sees the boys get under way on time, collects score cards and generally acts as manager on the spot. Morley Soler is picking at the Granite and George Laight keeps things running smoothly at the Edmonton.

Granite President E. H. Bivers and RCMP curlers got their man twice yesterday after dropping a 3-2 under to Alex Edmunds of Alberta Avenue on the opening draw. The Mounties sidelined Griggs, Royal, 13-10 on the 6 o'clock, after edging out J. Metz, Alberta Avenue, 11-10 at 3 o'clock.

Tommy Caburn Still Winning

PRESIDENT Bob Edwards of the Edmonton, failed to click until his third start, when he took the measure of Bill Penbury's Albert Avenue, 10-9 at 3 o'clock.

He added a 16-11 win over Alex Hudson, Alberta Avenue at 6 o'clock.

Father Rooney, Westlock, always a regular attendant at Edmonton bonspiels, won two of three starts. One of his victories was a tough 12-11 decision over Jack Slavy's strong Viking rink.

Austin Smith of Sedgewick is carrying on for Billy Rose. He slipped once, dropping a 16-15 game to Patterson, Granite, 13-11 at 9 o'clock and to Loads of Viking at 6 p.m.

Tommy Caburn of Dunsin, kept up his winning ways by chalking up two wins in three starts. His current winning streak is 23. Tommy eliminated Dalglish of Grand Prairie on the 12 o'clock Visitors and followed up with a 16-10 win over J. Metz, Alberta Avenue.

Out Bemoans Losing Star Outfielder

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—M. Ott, looking about five years younger than he did at the end of the 1981 baseball season, was reviewing the Giants' prospects for the 1982 season. He still looks like a young man, but he's not.

Whitely Lockman had not been hurt, he mused. "Lockman, you know, was the flashy young outfielder who broke a leg during a spring exhibition and couldn't play all season. He still looks like a young man, but he's not."

Lockman was playing center field and Clint Hartung left. Ott went on. "They seemed to have a line drawn somewhere in left field. He still looks like a young man, but he's not."

Rout Quakers 7-2 To Regain Lead

Edmonton's "Pony Express"—Andy Clovechok, Bing Merluk and Doug Anderson—delivered the mail for a 7-2 victory over the Saskatoon Quakers and at the same time moved into first place in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

The smooth-functioning Edmonton team, which clicked on its passing plays and threw a "monkey wrench" into the Saskatoon offense, huddled both Regins and Calgary Stampede. They are now huddled on top with 4 points, one more than Cam and Stamp. Saskatoon missed a chance to get out of a tie with Lethbridge in the basement.

A SCORE of 7-2 appears decisive enough in any hockey game, but it could quite easily have been a 10-2. It was a 7-2 victory for the Edmonton "Pony Express" over the Saskatoon Quakers.

The "PONY" line, confusing the opposition with a "checkered" passing attack, scored five of the goals and picked up a total of 11 points.

Merkluk and Anderson each finished the red light a couple of times, while Doug Anderson, who had a goal and two assists, was named MVP. The Quakers' penalty minutes were 10.

Anderson and Keith Burgess led the team for Saskatoon. The game was an important victory for Edmonton, which had been in a losing streak.

Blank Poles 15-0

By JACK SULLIVAN

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 3.—Canada's RCAF Flyers, enjoying a light workout in a game that generated good feeling on both sides, brushed aside Poland 15-0 yesterday for their third straight victory in the St. Moritz hockey tournament.

Scoring almost at will against a team whose only resemblance to hockey players was the uniform, the RCAF Flyers, a brilliant red and white—their uniforms were the uniform of the Polish national team—put the Canadians in a 15-0 lead in the first period, and the game was over.

AT THE OUTER end of the rink Ronde Gault Murray Dwyer had little trouble recording his eighth straight goal to put the Canadians in a 15-0 lead in the first period, and the game was over.

Strength in Direction for Fifty Years

At the fiftieth annual meeting of National Trust Company, Limited, Mr. W. M. O'Connor, President, said in part:

The highlight in the 1947 statement is the transfer of $1,000,000 to our Reserve Fund. Half of this amount was transferred from Profit and Loss account and the other half from Contingent Reserve. The Reserve Fund is now $3,000,000, the amount at which it stood prior to the transfer of $1,250,000 to Contingent Reserve in 1937.

On March 17, 1947, we officially opened our office in Vancouver. I am happy to report that, thanks to the energetic efforts of Mr. Pearson, Assistant General Manager, and his staff at Vancouver, a gratifying volume of business has already been obtained.

As this is the fiftieth annual meeting of the Company, our Golden Anniversary, I am thinking of the shareholders' meeting today as a sort of family gathering, and under the circumstances my remarks are going to be strictly domestic and limited to some aspects of the business and the historical side of the Company. I therefore propose to pull down the Iron Curtain on Inflation, European Recovery, International Bank, Private Enterprise, the Marshall Plan, and give them all a well-deserved holiday.

COMPANY FORMED IN 1898

On August 22nd, 1898, the Company opened for business in an office which occupied a small space in the premises of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, King and Victoria Streets, Mr. E. R. Wood, Managing-Director of Central Canada, was appointed Managing-Director of National Trust Company.

I think that the rapid progress in the development of the business of the Company, which started almost immediately after its inception, was largely attributable to the original directorate which consisted of men outstanding in the business and financial life of the community. Many of the connections which they made for the Company with the business and financial world have been retained right through our fifty years of operation. Some of the most important transfer agencies and bond issue trusteeships of which we have charge today are the direct result of the connections made for the Company by the Directors shortly after we started in business. I feel that we have been singularly fortunate in having at all times through the life of the Company great strength in direction. This, as much as any single factor, is to my mind responsible for the great success we have enjoyed.

TRADITION OF PUBLIC SERVICE

The tradition of public service has also been characteristic of the Directors of this Company.

In 1911, Mr. W. T. White, now the Right Honourable Sir Thomas White, resigned as General Manager of the Company to become Finance Minister of Canada; in 1915 Mr. J. W. Flavell, afterwards Sir Joseph Flavell, Bart., became Chairman of the Imperial Munitions Board; and Mr. A. E. Kemp, later Sir Edward Kemp, became Canada's Minister of Militia.

In the second World War the Chairman of our Board, the Honourable Leighton McCarthy, became Canada's Ambassador to the United States, and the Right Honourable Vincent Massey served throughout the war as Canada's High Commissioner to Great Britain. Mr. W. M. Birks was Chairman of the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund; Mr. J. P. Bickell became a close associate of Lord Beaverbrook in the latter's great achievement in the field of munition production; and Mr. E. P. Taylor held the key position of head of the British Purchasing Commission in Washington. Mr. Terence Sheard, one of our senior officers, was head of the Supply Division of the Air Force.

GROWTH OF ASSETS IS IMPRESSIVE

The record of the Company's growth is impressive. In 1908 the assets of the estates, trusts and agencies which we were handling at that time amounted to $8,000,000; in 1918 these increased to $69,000,000; in 1928 to $178,000,000; in 1938 to $254,000,000; and at the beginning of 1948 they amounted to $312,000,000. This net increase in assets over the years, however, tells only part of the story. For example, last year we showed an increase in assets of $7,000,000 over the previous year. However, the real fact is that in 1947 the new estates, trust and agency business entrusted to us for administration was over $31,000,000. The difference between these two figures represents payments of $24,000,000 made during the year to or on behalf of beneficiaries and clients.

The most important element in this steady, substantial and healthy growth of the business of the Company is the confidence of the public in the security, integrity and efficiency of the Company, its directorate, management and staff.

The Company has always taken pride in the quality and devotion of the members of its staff, and such pride was never better justified than it is today. The Company is proud of them and I know they are proud of the Company. As a group they have in full measure that team spirit which is the mark of a successful organization large or small; as individuals they have more than earned our thanks and fully deserve our confidence, as they have earned and deserve the confidence of the public.

It is the spirit, ability and experience of our whole organization that give us the best assurance of its future. At fifty years of age the Company has reached maturity, but we believe it has lost none of the enthusiasm and energy so characteristic of its youth. Stronger in every way than ever before it can look forward with confidence to a future even more impressive than its record over the past fifty years.

In his address at the annual meeting of National Trust Company, Limited, Mr. H. V. Laughton, K.C., Vice-President and General Manager, said in part:

The President, in his usual lucid and very interesting manner, has given you a brief picture of the history of the fifty years of the Company's existence, and what he has said, coupled with the figures in the balance sheet which speak for themselves, show in a very striking way the growth of the business of the Company.

The balance sheet presented to the shareholders shows the net results of the business for 1947 and the present position of the Company. In addition the shareholders may rest assured that the practice adopted in the early days of the Company and adhered to without interruption, namely, of valuing all assets on a very conservative basis and providing ample reserves for any contingency that can be foreseen, has been followed once more in the preparation of the statement for 1947.

NEW INCOME TAX LEGISLATION

In July of last year the Minister of Finance introduced in the House of Commons an act respecting income taxes which when adopted would replace the Income War Tax Act and would be retroactive to January 1, 1948. The Minister stated it was not the intention to press the bill for enactment at the session and it was hoped that the various business and industrial organizations throughout the country who were well equipped from a technical point of view to render a useful service to the country through an exhaustive analysis of this legislation would give careful study to the bill, and the Minister gave an assurance that any suggestions for improvement would be welcome. Following this, many organizations, such as the Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, Chartered Accountants Associations and others, including the Trust Companies Associations, have appointed committees, and I understand that representations will be made to the Minister. The Minister is to be strongly commended for giving this opportunity for study and it is to be hoped that these suggestions, which will have been made by those well qualified to judge the effect of taxing provisions on the country as a whole, will receive the most careful consideration. I also once more strongly urge that at the present session the Dominion Government amend the Succession Duty Act to give complete exemption to gifts made for charitable purposes in Canada.

CO-OPERATION WITH LAWYERS

Once more I should like to refer to and express great satisfaction at the cordial relations that have at all times existed between the Company and the members of the legal profession. Lawyers generally feel that they are made welcome when they come to us for help or information, regardless of whether or not the Company will receive any business. We appreciate and value very much this general good-will and it is our intention to do everything possible to preserve it.

It is scarcely necessary for me to say that I agree with everything Mr. O'Connor has said regarding the staff of the Company, and I wish to associate myself with him in his message to the staff.

I would like to express appreciation particularly to the group to which we often refer as "key" men or women. These are members of the staff who have been with us for a number of years and their work in training a constantly changing junior staff and in seeing that the important services of the Company have been maintained at a very high level cannot be too greatly praised.

The Coming Russian Terror

By Stanislaw Mikolajczyk
Former Prime Minister of Poland and President of the Polish Peasant Party

Installment XXVI

In today's installment Stanislaw Mikolajczyk reveals how Stalin personally dictated the "results" of Poland's "free and unfettered" election of January, 1947, ordering announcement that Polish Peasant Party candidates had polled only 10 per cent of the votes through its actual vote 74 per cent, despite mass arrests, gun-point intimidations and murders—EDITOR.

The exact mathematical outcome of Poland's "free and unfettered" election of January, 1947, was arranged by Joseph Stalin at the Kremlin on August 28, 1946.

STALIN FIXED the date of the election. He fixed the exact number of votes which he would permit each of the Polish political parties to receive. And he fixed the explanation which the Polish government must put forward in the event of protests from within Poland or from the Allies.

His orders were given to Jacob Bernas, chief of the Polish Politburo, Wladyslaw Gomułka, first vice-president of the government, secretary of the Communist Party in Poland, President Stanislaw Bierut, Communist head of the National Council, Edward Osiecki, secretary of the Polish Peasant Party, and Stanislaw Swoboda, vice-president of the Polish Peasant Party, and Stanislaw Swoboda, vice-president of the Polish Peasant Party.

He ordered the Polish government to make a statement to the effect that the Polish government was not responsible for the election results, but that the Polish government was not responsible for the election results.

not permitted to attend the Warsaw meeting which had been addressed by Gomułka. Elsewhere in the country we held our own meetings, but none of them, and resolutions passed opposing Byrnes' speech, were censored.

THIS, BECAUSE of Byrnes' speech, our party headquarters was demolished. And, at the same time, we were the victims of Stalin's order to blame us for "pro-German attitude and opposing the Western front."

We were surely in the middle, and the only bright spot in our dark hour was that the next day we were the victims of Stalin's order to blame us for "pro-German attitude and opposing the Western front."

On September 18, over my protests and those of the U.S. and British governments, the Communist-ministered provisional parliament served passed an election law which provided:

1.—THE WESTERN areas would have greater proportionate representation in the forthcoming election.

2.—Any Pole suspected of previous collaboration with the German or current collaboration with the criminal underground, would be deprived of the vote.

That sounded reasonable enough to the outer world, but we knew there was a secret side to each clause. We knew that a number of parliament would be chosen from every 20,000 inhabitants of the western areas (as opposed to one MP for every 12,000 in the more populous sections of Poland).

The people of Western Poland, for every 12,000 in the more populous sections of Poland, would be chosen from every 20,000 inhabitants of the western areas (as opposed to one MP for every 12,000 in the more populous sections of Poland).

When the speech reached Copenhagen, I was met with a declaration to press protesting against it. I pointed out the herculean effort of millions of Poles who were restoring that ravaged region, while—though impoverished to a great degree—had brought new life and blood to an area which they had been told and believed would be their own.

MY STATEMENT gained wide circulation. But in Poland it was suppressed.

Two days after the Byrnes speech, on Sunday, September 8, Gomułka inflamed a large crowd in a Warsaw meeting. He then gave the signal to a chosen mob of hoodlums to march on the American Embassy and demonstrate against U.S. Ambassador Arthur Bliss.

The Communist mob, bearing stolen Socialist Party banners, then moved on the main headquarters of the Polish Peasant Party, smashed the building and its furnishings, burned party records and destroyed valuable records of the Gazueta Ludowa.

to be more malleable than the franchise voters in that part of Poland where a measure of private enterprise still existed. In Western Poland, no one was permitted to own property. The promised deeds in all their possessions, down to the smallest article of furniture, were still state-owned.

WE AGREED WITH point No. 2, on its face value. But we demanded that the "suspected" be given a fair hearing in advance and by competent judges. But this law gave the right to election commissions to the sole judge in this matter. As it turned out, these commissions were unknown to the local population and they arbitrarily deprived all 1,000,000 Poles of their right to take part in this "free and unfettered" election. We later produced incontrovertible evidence that in some villages as much as 70 per cent of the eligible population was deprived of the vote, and in countless cases, Polish Peasant Party candidates were scratched off the ballot by these Commissioners.

In the weeks before the election, more than 10,000 Poles were arrested by the Security Police. They were kept, half-clad and naked, for days in dirty open fields for refusing to withdraw their names from lists proposing Polish Peasant Party candidates for office. Or they were punished for refusing to break the law of Yalta, the Polish Constitution and even the Polish Electoral Law. Those who insisted that voting be secret. The Reds, however, wanted "open" voting as another means of controlling it. They demanded that the arrested persons commit themselves to vote for the "government" candidate.

ONE HUNDRED and forty-two of our candidates were kept in prison throughout the normal campaign period before the election. One of these, Mr. Sygula, a farmer in Silesia, was tortured to death in prison. Security police officials killed 128 members of our party during this reign of terror before the election. Military units were created and sent to the villages to lead armed force to the Communist.

These units were commanded and their ferocious program outlined by Gen. Korycia, a Russian general who is now chief of staff of the Polish army.

Local offices of our party were demolished. Party automobiles were confiscated. Leaflets explaining to our people how to vote the Reds had seen to it that different rules applied to us in each province—were seized and the messengers imprisoned. The people were ordered, on election day itself, to appear first at their factories or offices and then were marched under armed guard to the polling boxes. Armed guards stood at most polling places, trying to sway—at gun-point—the decision of the voters.

I cast my vote in a polling place on Marszalkowska street in Warsaw. I stood in a queue for two hours, while Communists marched past and spat on me. Then one of my friends called several members of the foreign press. When they appeared with their cameras the Communists faded away, the door of the polling place opened, and the line began to move.

AN AREA OF Poland inhabited by 350,000 people (27½) was not given alternate candidates because the only opposition—our list of candidates—had been ruled invalid. We were barred in 11 of the 32 constituencies in the country. Thus 76 of the 444 members of parliament gained office in uncontested balloting.

But they still had to steal the election!

At the closing of the polls, the commissioners—sitting on orders enforced by the presence of the Security Police—systematically burned all those Polish Peasant Party ballots in excess of 10 per cent. Only 36 of the 5,200 Polish Peasant Party members who had been assigned under the electoral law to be present at the counting of the vote were permitted to remain, and observe.

THESE 36 POLLING places where our members were permitted to watch the count were specifically chosen by the Reds because they were certain that Communist candidates would enjoy large majorities in these precincts.

But even here, our majority was never lower than 65 per cent and in 10 of the areas it reached 92 per cent!

The official announcement, citing by Stalin's name, stated that the "Government-bloc" candidates had attracted 90 per cent of the people's votes. We had attracted 10 per cent, the statement said.

And then, to their hot embarrassment, the Polish Communists were obliged to report secretly to Stalin

Becomes Director Ground Training

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—Air force headquarters yesterday announced the transfer of Group Capt. C. H. Greenway, OBE, of Lloyminster, from Camp Borden to Ottawa as director of ground training for the RCAF, replacing Wing Cmdr. A. Wainman who is attending the National Defence College at Kingston.

Group Capt. Greenway joined the air force in 1935 after graduating from the University of Saskatchewan in mechanical engineering. Before the war he was employed on flying instructional duties at Trenton and Camp Borden, and in 1939 went overseas with 112 (Army co-operation) Squadron.

Oil Burner Plant Now Turns to Coal

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The fuel oil shortage has caused an oil burner manufacturer here to convert his plant to coal.

The Penn Boiler and Burner Manufacturing Company yesterday announced it was closing down an indefinite period "due to the drop in demand for oil burners."

During the shutdown, the spokesman said, the plant's oil heat system will be ripped out and a coal furnace installed.

"We'll go back to making oil burners when the market opens," the spokesman declared. "But coal will be used for heating our own plant."

that their efforts—which constituted the vilest fraud in recent history—had failed. They had to tell this master architect of the crime that had polluted 74 per cent of all the votes cast.

THIS DID A wholly terrorized people gloriously prove their political maturity and their unshakable determination to be free.

The Book of Knowledge (Department: The Earth)

This and the following articles are taken from the Book of Knowledge and can be clipped for saving in a reference book.

A COMET'S HAZARDOUS JOURNEY

We began our story of comets in yesterday's article. Small members of the sun's family, they travel around the sun along paths shaped like ellipses. Some of their paths are so flat and go so far out from the sun that a comet may take hundreds and even thousands of years to make a complete journey. Thus many of them are invisible from the earth, while others return in a few years.

When a comet nears the sun, its head and tail are lit up, thus becoming visible to us. The tail, cloud of particles repelled by the sun's light, stretches out behind the comet's head in approaching the sun and then streams out in front on the journey away.

Imagine a comet far, far away beyond the planet Pluto, where the sun's rays hardly light up the darkness. Sometimes it jogs along at only 10 feet a second, but it quickens up as it rounds the far end of its elongated orbit to start back toward the sun.

Its journey may not be all plain sailing. Sometimes a giant planet, Saturn or Jupiter, will stretch out an invisible arm to clutch at a comet, causing it to leave from its path. Jupiter captured a comet in your grandfather's time—Comet Brooks, 1860—and changed its path.
